

County Planning Board Gives Go-ahead to South Core Plans

by Thomas X. White

At its meeting on Thursday, February 2 the Prince George's County Planning Board considered and approved the Preliminary Plan and revised Conceptual Site Plan (CSP) for the South Core of the Greenbelt Station development. The action rectifies flaws inherent in the original July 2001 CSP for the development which was successfully challenged by the City of Greenbelt and remanded by the Maryland Court of Appeals in 2004.

The Planning Board action, which included some 65 conditions, went a long way in addressing concerns expressed by its technical staff and the cities of Greenbelt and College Park.

The many conditions that the planning staff of the Maryland-National Capital Park and Planning Commission (M-NCPPC) would ultimately recommend to the Planning Board before its approval for the revised CSP were hammered out among all of the above parties in meetings with representatives of Greenbelt Metropark LLC prior to the Planning Board's consideration.

At the Planning Board meeting later that day, the board received formal testimony from Gary Wagner, the M-NCPPC planning coordinator; Norman Rivera, the developers' representative;

Celia Craze, Greenbelt's director of Planning and Community Development; the planning director for College Park and private citizens representing either themselves or neighborhood associations. At the end of the day the Planning Board added new conditions, deleted some conditions or modified the language of others before crafting a motion that was approved unanimously by its members. The board action now paves the way for consideration of a Detailed Site Plan (DSP) for the South Core development that will likely be on upcoming agendas of the Greenbelt Advisory Planning Board and city council this spring. For the developers and the City of Greenbelt and its citizens, the planning saga for Greenbelt Station continues. It now enters a more detailed phase in terms of refining the agreed-upon requirements that are outlined in the approved CSP and its attendant conditions.

City Conditions

In her testimony to the Planning Board, Craze announced that with completion of the proposed annexation, "... as of January 26, 2006, the entire Greenbelt Station project is now located within the City of Greenbelt's municipal boundaries." In her comments, she reiterated Greenbelt's position as outlined in a January 27 letter to the Planning Board from Greenbelt's Mayor Pro-Tem Rodney Roberts.

That letter said the city was pleased that the majority of conditions important to Greenbelt were included in the M-NCPPC technical staff report. However, the city's letter highlighted several conditions approved by the council but not referenced in the technical staff's report. Roberts requested the Planning Board adopt the following conditions setting forth requirements for the applicant:

(1) At the time of the review of the first DSP for each core area, provide a plan showing all proposed private and public trails, including identification of public access points to the proposed stream valley trail system.

(2) Provide at the time of the first DSP for the South Core a proposed schedule, subject to approval of the State of Maryland and the City of Greenbelt, for the transfer of the remaining land (36 acres) to be given to the state.

(3) Not exceed the cumulative environmental impacts associated with previously approved variation requests by any proposed development or construction within the project area.

Acting Postmaster to Guide Move to New Post Office

by Carol Griffith

Galo Tolentino, acting postmaster of the Greenbelt Post Office, will be in charge of the Post Office's move from the current Centerway location to the facility under construction on Hanover Parkway. Tolentino was requested to come to the Greenbelt Post Office in the prolonged absence of Postmaster Cooper and has been in charge since the last week of December. Tolentino has been a postal employee since 1981. His usual assignment is in Huntingtown, Calvert County. He lives in Waldorf.

At this time Tolentino is unable to provide information about the move, as by United States Postal Service rules he is not allowed to discuss any aspect until plans are final. He did, however, say that there are "minor problems" with the new facility and that no firm date for the move has been set. He added that when plans for the move are formalized, a letter announcing the move and giving necessary information will be mailed to each postal customer and posted on each post office box.

Greenbelt Elementary Takes First in State "First in Math"

by Anne Gardner

Students at Greenbelt Elementary School are excited about math these days, thanks to an online computer game called the "First in Math 24 Game." In fact they are doing so well that the school is currently ranked first in the state.

The "First in Math" program was implemented in the fifth grade at Greenbelt Elementary School in the fall of 2005. Since that time, students have logged many hours practicing math problems, from simple addition and subtraction facts through decimals, fractions, exponents and complex algebra. The game can be played on any computer with internet access, so the students can play at home or the library as well as at school. In January the program was extended to include the third, fourth and sixth grades, plus a group of 14 second grade students who are working on third grade math.

The original 24 Game was invented in 1988 by Robert Sun, of Suntex International. He "wanted to demonstrate that mathematics can be powerful, engaging and most of all fun." The current online version, "First in Math," has been available since 2002. Students progress at their own pace, earning electronic "award stickers" for each level completed and a record is kept of individual member and team progress. When teachers log on they can track progress through Assessment Reports which allows them to assist students who are struggling. They also can check the ranking of individuals or their team against other students, class to class, school to school and even at state and national levels.

There are many areas to explore, including the "Workout Gym" which gives students extra practice to pump up their math muscles, and "Show What You Know" which provides an interesting and fun way for students to experience the type of problems found in standardized tests. Puzzles, bonus games and congratulatory messages are included to keep students excited and interested.

According to Pamela Bauer, teacher of the top-performing fifth grade class, "This program engages students in the learning process. We love this program and continue to see success among all of our students."

20th Century Textile Expert Is Greenbelt Museum Staff Intern

by Enid Y. Grempler

Years ago Julie Geschwind began her journey with textiles by launching a hand-woven clothing business. Today she deals with textiles in a museum setting. It is her love of fabrics and materials from the 20th century that brought her to the Greenbelt Museum about a month ago for an internship.

Previously she had looked into working at several different historical landmark museums in the Washington Metropolitan Area: The Hillwood House, Tudor Place and the Pope-Leighey House.

"Many people going through my program are interested in the 18th and 19th century," she said, "but I'm strictly interested in the 20th century. Greenbelt is a rare opportunity for me to be surrounded by the objects and history that I want to focus on in my career. I was also interested in the fact that there have been few clothing and textile shows at the museum and I would have an opportunity to work on one for the future."

Her day at the museum involves cataloguing data into the computer about all the clothing and textiles in the available collections. Geschwind provides a detailed description of the materials and records their condition. Finally she constructs a plan of where to place each object in the museum. The internship benefits her as well since she is currently pursuing her master's degree in decorative art with an emphasis on textiles.

Geschwind also works in the education department at the Textile Museum doing special projects. Two years ago she and a fellow textile enthusiast June Pearson Bland gave a talk on native fabrics from Gambia and Mali. Geschwind, an Alexandria resident, has taught at the Art League School's Springwater Fiber Workshop and also served on its board of directors.

Each job puts her closer to her ultimate goal of becoming a curator working with textiles and clothing of the 20th century. Not only is she interested in 20th century textiles, she is also enamored of the style of archiitecture found throughout Greenbelt.

"The Art Deco style is one aspect that is very appealing to me. It is also an interesting part of history during the Great Depression and not one that is usually displayed in a museum, other than for a specific exhibit," she said. If the pieces of her life seem connected like the threads in a tapestry, that's because they are. Even the City of Greenbelt bears a slight resemblance to the development where she resides.

"I live in an area just south of Old Town Alexandria called Hollin Hills which is a mid-century modern development. We are in the process of being registered on the list of Historic Communities." As far as she's concerned about this historic community, Geschwind adds one final thought: "I think that Greenbelt is a fantastic glimpse of an important part of history, of the Depression, the so-called Progressive Era, the New Deal and how people lived during that period."

Significant Achievements

It makes sense for the South Core development at Greenbelt Station including the wetlands tract along Indian Creek to become part of the City of Greenbelt. We congratulate the city council and the city’s planning staff on this accomplishment.

Even if it proves less economically beneficial than city staff estimates, the South Core will become an important part of the Greenbelt Station project, a mixed-use transit-oriented community.

With the North Core (the Metro station parking lots, to be overbuilt with a complex of major structures) already within the city, the entire project will be subject to the same jurisdictional regulations. Prior to annexation, the city’s western boundary jutted out around an irregularly-shaped peninsula, the North Core. Now the CSX railroad tracks, an established barrier from the Beltway to Branchville Road, will separate Greenbelt from College Park.

To accomplish annexation of the South Core, the city undertook extensive bargaining with Greenbelt Metropark LLC. Such bargaining, of course, entails much give and take and we believe Greenbelt achieved many important concessions from the developer. On the other hand, providing financial assistance for construction of the north-south connector road through Greenbelt Station constituted a major concession on the part of the city. Yet this assistance will be carried out without the city’s having to pledge any part of municipal resources toward payment of this debt. Instead a portion of property taxes from Greenbelt Station to be realized from the new development will be dedicated to this purpose. The debt, which will be temporary, can assure a superior development of Greenbelt Station. The annexation will be permanent.

Neither this annexation nor the many other concessions the city has received from the developers could have been achieved if the city had not pursued its legal objections to the developmental procedures all the way to the Maryland Court of Special Appeals. Nor would it have been accomplished without able and effective negotiations on the part of the city council and its professional and dedicated administrative and planning staff. Not only did Greenbelt benefit from the city’s deteremined efforts but College Park and Berwyn Heights were then able to obtain concessions from the developer also.

We applaud our city council and the city staff for these significant achievements.

Prefers Activists Be Constructive

We have a pretty nice community here in Greenbelt. Not perfect but pretty nice.

Most of the good things we enjoy, activities and facilities, are the results of citizens working together, often with our city government.

Actually one reason why Greenbelt is a better place to live may be because it has more constructive activists than other places. This certainly includes those willing to serve on the city council and its boards.

But, occasionally, something doesn’t work out and a different type of “activist” appears – to castigate and blame.

Frankly, I strongly prefer those activists who anticipate and participate to build our community. They are pretty nice people.

Not Everything Must Be in Old Greenbelt

Why is it so hard to accept that some services need not be in the center of Greenbelt?

I write this letter, first of all, to demonstrate that Greenbelt East does have public transportation for accessing the new post office soon to be opened at the intersection of Hanover Parkway and Ora Glen Drive, contrary to what was stated in a letter in the February 2 edition of the News Review.

I know from extensive experience riding buses through various parts of Greenbelt that Metrobus route R12 passes the post office and that the T16/17 service is only a block away. The Prince George’s County The Bus routes 15 and 16 have a stop right next to the post office; and students, staff and faculty can ride the University of Maryland Shuttle to the same block as the post office. What more is needed? Apparently a sidewalk – and this is required to be built when the post office construction is completed.

Secondly, as for the unfortunate situation that the center of Greenbelt will not have a contract postal unit, despite good faith efforts by city leaders, my recollection is that Greenbelt might not have had a post office at all had it not been for efforts by the city council and Congressman Steny Hoyer.

Beyond this, as a resident of Greenbelt East I feel I must write that the center of our city is fortunate to have a branch of the county library system, the Greenbelt Community Center, the Municipal Building, a performing arts facility and a cinema, all patronized and/or supported by taxes paid by residents of Greenbelt East as well as those of Greenbelt Center and other parts of our city.

Any letter that criticizes people cannot be given much credence if it contains inaccuracies. Mr. Goldberg, by reason of being elected chair of the Greenbelt East Advisory Committee, can speak for citizens of Greenbelt East; and he also has a 20-year experience of city affairs in Greenbelt as a whole. Even though, unlike me, he does not ride public transportation in Greenbelt, the efforts of Mr. Goldberg on behalf of Greenbelt are appreciated by persons like me, who can set the record straight.

Hire Somebody to Run Postal Unit

In all the discussions about a contract postal unit in Roosevelt Center, I have not heard mention of what will be done with the current post office space.

Just a suggestion: couldn’t the space be modified to use one half the present area, create the CPU there and put an ad in the Greenbelt News Review to hire people to run it? Why is the search limited to only current businesses in Roosevelt Center?

Correction

The space for the legend below the map of Greenbelt Station that appeared on page one in last week’s issue was blank. Best we can tell this happened because the legend was arranged behind the map after it was edited.

There was also an incorrect date given for the start of the new Islamic calendar year in the “What is Islam?” ad on page 4. The month of Muharram is determined by the lunar calendar and officially started on January 31 not February 2. The News Review regrets the errors.

New Post Office: Some Perspective

Readers of last week’s letter to the editor regarding the post office need more historical context to get the full picture. Greenbelt has long been in need of a new post office. The current facility is undersized for patrons and very undersized for the carriers in the back. Almost 10 years ago, postal service officials indicated that they were taking steps to find new accommodations for the current post office. They could find no suitable locations in Greenbelt and were looking for a site outside of the city that might also be combined with a postal facility for the Glenn Dale area.

We found this possibility unacceptable and said so to the postal service. In order to improve the likelihood of a facility in Greenbelt, the city worked to identify sites that were large enough and had appropriate access for the postal service. Five potential sites were identified.

After consideration, the postal service identified the parcel at Hanover Parkway and Ora Glen Drive as its preferred site. It did not infringe on nearby residential neighborhoods and was large enough to meet the postal service’s needs while being buffered from the adjacent Windsor Green community.

The property did not come easily. There was a limitation placed on the property by an earlier owner who had been foreclosed on. It required the threat of a city lawsuit to clean up this matter. As part of the agreement with the landowners, the city was also able to acquire the 10-acre undeveloped Sunrise property at the end of Hanover Drive, which the city had been interested in doing for a number of years.

From the very beginning of this process, we made it clear that we expected the postal service to retain service in Roosevelt Center. Representatives from the postal service understood this position and were supportive of it. It was only in the last two years that the financial difficulties facing the postal service forced it to pull back from making continued service in Roosevelt Center a reality.

The claims of inadequate access are not accurate. There is plenty of roadway access on Hanover Parkway and Ora Glen Drive. Hanover Parkway is three lanes wide in this section and there is a traffic light at the intersection of Hanover and Ora Glen. Sidewalks that will connect with existing sidewalks on Hanover and Ora Glen are being installed as part of the project. Bus stops exist right across the street from the new post office on Hanover Parkway. Bicycle access from Greenbelt East will be easy along existing trails and walkways and pedestrians and cyclists from historic Greenbelt can access these paths via the Spellman Overpass.

Understandably, the relocation of the post office will benefit some residents and inconvenience others. However, the city was faced with the possibility of not having a post office at all, which would have been a loss for everyone. We believe the new post office will serve the city well for many years.

New Musical Opening at GAC

by Chris Cherry

Since the new year began, 26 young performers have been hard at work memorizing lines, songs and dances for the annual winter youth musical presented by the Greenbelt Recreation Department and the Greenbelt Arts Center. Their weeks of preparation will culminate on opening night, Friday, February 17 when the lights go up at the Arts Center on “Perseus and the Gorgon,” a new musical by Chris Cherry.

Based on Greek myth, the story features two kings, two queens, a prince raised as a humble fisherman’s son, assorted gods and goddesses and, of course, the Gorgon, a monster so hideous that the sight of it turns people to stone. Before venturing into the Gorgon’s cave, Perseus receives three magical gifts: the sword of Hermes, the shield of Athena and the veil of Persephone. Perseus will succeed in his quest only if he has the insight to use the gifts in unexpected ways – and to see past the Gorgon’s monstrous appearance.

An early version of the show was presented this summer during Creative Kids Camp as Snakehead and Stoneface, which was a narrated story with songs. Families who enjoyed Snakehead will delight in seeing this fully developed incarnation of the show with a complete libretto and score. Not only has dialogue replaced all the narration but there are additional characters and songs, a dramatic sword fight, beautiful choreography and costumes and a captivating magical finale.

The cast of “Perseus and the Gorgon” includes Greenbelters Cody Sanders as King Acrisius, Annie Loutsch as Queen Danae, Dina Goldberg-Strassler as the Seneschal and Elise Flynn, who plays the Gorgon at three performances. Show times at the Greenbelt Arts Center are February 17, 18, 19, 24 and 25 at 7 p.m., with a 2 p.m. matinee on February 19. For tickets, call the Greenbelt Community Center at 301-397-2208. There is a fee.

Crochet Class At Greenbriar

On February 18 there will be an opportunity to learn to crochet or get some expert help with projects in progress. The class will meet in the Greenbriar Commons Room from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. Participants must register in advance in the Greenbriar office. Ages 8 and up are welcome. There is a small fee per person. Crocheters are also to bring a skein of light colored yarn and a crochet hook. Call Ramona Davis for details at 301-441-1096, ext. 11.

Fire Safety Focus At Mamas & Papas

Film Festival At Mishkan Torah

A two day film festival, February 12 and February 18 will be held at Mishkan Torah. On February 12 at 2 p.m. there will be a showing of "The Frisco Kid." This is a movie about a newly-ordained orthodox rabbi from the pale of settlement of Eastern Europe, who sets out on horseback from Philadelphia to San Francisco knowing only that California is somewhere near New York. It is a comedy and stars Gene Wilder and a young Harrison Ford. The film will be shown on a 65 inch TV set that the Men's Club of Mishkan Torah rented to show this film festival.

On February 18 at 7 p.m. there will be a double feature: The first feature will be "Like Father Like Clown," a comedy cartoon. This film was made in 1991 and lasts 30 minutes. It was one of "The Simpsons" series. The voice of Rabbi Hyman Krustofski is that of Jackie Mason.

The second feature will be "A Thousand Clowns." This film stars Jason Robards and Martin Balsam and was made in 1965. It is 118 minutes long. Martin Balsam won an Oscar for an actor in a supporting role in this film. The black and white film, nominated for six Oscars, is serious but has some comic aspects. A social worker is threatening to separate the nephew from the influence of his iconoclastic uncle.

There is no charge to attend but there will be a donations basket to help defray the large screen TV rental.

Today, February 9, marks the 10th day of Muharram which is known as Ashurah.

The 10th day of the Islamic month of Muharram marks the commemoration of the day when the Prophet Moses (peace be upon him) and his people were delivered from the tyranny of the Pharaoh. The story of the flight of the Bani Israel from Egypt is well known in all monotheistic faiths and the day is recognized with fasting by both Jews and Muslims alike. Upon instruction from the Prophet Muhammad (peace and blessings be upon him) Muslims are encouraged to fast for two days.

G. Ivey, G. Mathews To Address Dems

by Pat Unger

This month’s regular meeting of the Eleanor & Franklin Roosevelt Democratic Club of Greenbelt will feature two speakers on local and county crime prevention and statistics. Prince George’s County State’s Attorney Glenn Ivey will present these issues from a county-wide prospective.

Then, as in earlier years, the club will recognize a city employee in February as its “Greenbelt Sweetheart.” This year that honor goes to Officer George Mathews of the Greenbelt Police Department. He will speak on law enforcement from the municipal point of view.

President Pat Unger will conduct a brief business meeting at 7:30 p.m. on Friday, February 17 in the Terrace Room of the Greenbriar Community Building, 7600 Hanover Parkway, at the corner of Greenbelt Road, Rt. 193. Members, prospective members and the public are all welcome. A social hour will follow the program. Members are asked to bring desserts or snacks to share. Coffee, tea and soft drinks will be provided.

Upcoming events will also be discussed. A Social Night Out on Friday, March 17 will replace the regular meeting for that month, beginning with dinner at the Beijing Restaurant at 6:30 p.m., followed by the Irish comedy, “The Riot Act” at the Greenbelt Arts Center at 8 p.m. Call Bob or Lyn Doyle at 301-441-2585 for ticket information.

Plans will also be completed for a Bowie Baysox Tailgate Supper and game on Friday, June 23, co-sponsored with the Governor Oden Bowie Democratic Club of Bowie.

With the Democratic Primary Election scheduled for Tuesday, September 12 both Congressman Benjamin Cardin (MD-3) and former Congressman Kweisi Mfume (MD-7), candidates for the U.S. Senate seat being vacated by retiring Senator Paul Sarbanes, are expected to speak at the meeting on Friday, April 21. For program information call Sandra Eichbaum, 301-277-3072.

Golden Age Club

by Bunny Fitzgerald

The business meeting on February 2 was well attended. We were very pleased to learn that Lori Moran volunteered to chair the travel committee with Pearl Siegel and Lydia Goldstein as assistants. Thanks to all of you; it’s a tough job and means a lot to the club.

Congratulation to Ima and Don Davis who celebrated their 55th wedding anniversary with a delicious cake served by their daughter Donna. We love happy occasions at the Golden Age Club.

Bob Swain will entertain us on February 22. Bill Souser tells us that Bob has lots of interesting facts about bicycles, antique and otherwise. He may even bring some for display.

We wish Jack Owens a speedy recovery from his knee replacement. He would enjoy cards.

February is a short month and the meeting on March 1 will be a business meeting.

(4) Provide an appropriate mix of residential unit types to encourage diversity in ownership. Give consideration to providing cooperative housing, senior housing, work-force housing, various price points or other alternatives which will increase housing choices and opportunities.

(5) In the South Core, narrow the loop road between the civic open space and the adjacent open space leading to the stream valley to the minimum width necessary for two travel lanes and prohibit parking between the civic open space and the open space adjacent to the stream valley. Use a decorative pavement material for the no parking area to demonstrate the connection between the adjacent open spaces.

(6) Be responsible for the clean-up, removal of debris, rough grading and installation of utilities (up to the property line) for the 3.7 acre open space parcel dedicated to the city. For any other land dedicated to the city be responsible for removal of debris and invasive species as agreed with the city.

(7) Provide a civic/open space area in the South Core, measuring approximately 200 feet in width by 700 feet in length, extending from the north-south connector road to the Indian Creek stream valley as shown on the illustrative conceptual site plan. The civic/open space is to be designed to include, at a minimum, a formal gathering place, seating areas, a building for civic/public use and other design elements to define the total civic/open space and relate the space and uses to the neighborhood streetscape, landscaping and community in general. Prior to the issuance of the 200th building permit, the applicant shall submit proof of compliance with this condition.

Robert's letter noted, "the applicant has been working with the city over the past four years to address the city's concerns as they relate to development density, open space, transportation, the environment and urban design principles." In May 2005 the city entered into a development agreement with the applicant setting the framework for the funding and implementation of a number of city improvements, defining the amount of development involved and defining minimum and maximum percent land use types.

The city believes the development agreement served as the catalyst for the applicant to revise the 2001 CSP to reflect the vision of both the city and the approved Sector Plan and Sectional Map amendment for the Greenbelt Metro Area.

Conditions Rejected

During the meeting, in an exchange between Planning Board members and the technical staff, all but two of the city's additional conditions were accommodated or made part of the conditions. For the condition relating to housing types and forms of ownership, Elizabeth Hewlett, chair of the Planning Board, was sympathetic to the city's objectives but noted that such a provision was beyond the purview of the Planning Board's legislative mandate.

Similarly, for the condition relating to the applicant's schedule for the transfer of the remaining open space land to the State, the technical staff advised the Planning Board that such a condition would not be enforceable by M-NCPPC. When the technical staff also balked on the condition relating to the applicant's responsibility for the clean-up and removal of debris for lands ultimately to be dedicated to the city, Rivera, speaking for the developers, said they would proffer such a condition between themselves and the city. Four other city-requested conditions were acceptable to the technical staff and were either incorporated into the recommended conditions or added.

Greenbelt was not able to convince the Planning Board that the cap on residential units for the South Core should remain at 983 units. Rather, the technical staff had been persuaded that the extra 39 units were fair to compensate for the loss of units because of the enlargement of the civic/open space.

Additional language for that provision was added to read: "Up to 1,022 dwelling units may be permitted subject to verification by the Transportation Planning Section (M-NCPPC) that the additional dwelling units do not exceed the overall trip caps for the development." The Planning Board also was cognizant that the 983 cap was part of the development agreement between the city and the applicant and it felt that the cap number could either be enforced by that agreement or considered more fully at the time of the DSP.

Flood Impacts

Testimony provided by the planning director for the City of College Park, representatives of Berwyn Heights, the Berwyn District Citizens Association and the Committee to Restore Indian Creek focused on concern of neighboring and downstream communities regarding storm water management and 100-year flood plain impacts.

In response, the technical staff presented modified language to require that, at the time of each DSP review, the applicant shall submit plans to the Maryland Department of the Environment for review and comment and notify the City of College Park of each plan submittal for any area that includes 100-year flood plain impacts. College Park would also be notified of any proposed changes to flood plain elevations.

One area where Planning Board members were more engaged was the applicant's efforts to get a more flexible condition regarding the minimum amount of commercial/retail space required for the South Core. Planning Board member John Squire, who led the discussion, wanted more assurance that any reduction in the minimum level of retail/commercial space take place only after all efforts to lease such space were exhausted and that tests had been applied that the reductions were not just convenient for the developers.

The condition was modified by the technical staff to read, "A minimum of 80,000 square feet of commercial/retail/office shall be constructed prior to the issuance of building permits in excess of 785 dwelling units. The minimum square footage may be reduced to 60,000 square feet upon a demonstration that the space has not been determined to be commercially feasible."

The definition of feasibility requires the applicant continuously market the space for 180 days through an exclusive listing agent and be unable to obtain a user. Such an effort would justify a waiver or modification of the requirement. The space could then be converted for residential spaces.

Squire was concerned that the original concept for transit-oriented, mixed-use neighborhood development would be lost and the development would end up just like any suburban development subdivision. Rivera assured him that the applicant looked only for flexibility and that "it was not a question of whether, but when."

Piecemeal

Greenbelt citizen William Orleans expressed his view that the development proposal before them should be considered with the proposed redevelopment of Springhill Lake and possible changes for the rear of the Beltway plaza shopping mall as a comprehensive package. He said that to do otherwise would be planning in a piecemeal fashion.

Hewlett responded that the board and the staff agreed with his basic premise and that the technical staff had been aware of the other proposed developments in Greenbelt West as it considered the Greenbelt Station CSP. The board is constrained, however, because the process is designed for discrete development proposals from individual applicants and it cannot control the timing for review, she said.

Other speakers from Berwyn Heights, College Park and Greenbelt raised strong concerns about the lack of planning by the Board of Education to anticipate school facility needs in light of the expected increases in residential development from Greenbelt Station, Springhill Lake and any residential development being considered by the owners of Beltway Plaza.

The response was that the proposed developments were in the "developed" tier in Prince George's County's General Plan and, thus, the residential units would be subject to the required developer fees for new residential units.

After consideration, with all of the modifications to the original list of conditions that the technical staff was recommending and with some additions and deletions, the final tally of conditions recommended and approved by the Planning Board numbered about 65.

Fire & Rescue Log

The Fire Department Log is a monthly report of the activities and news from the Greenbelt Volunteer Fire Department and Rescue Squad, Inc. (GVFD&RS) The report includes recent incidents, news and upcoming events, fire safety and other fire department related information.

Incident Report

In January, the GVFD&RS responded to a total of 138 engine and 145 ambulance calls. Among those, 26 were reports of smoke or fire, 22 automatic fire alarms, 11 gas leaks, 60 motor vehicle accidents and 109 medical calls.

Busy 24 Hours

The 24-hour period from February 3 to 4 was a busy one for the GVFD&RS. Members responded to one working fire and three serious motor vehicle accidents in addition to other more routine calls.

Just before noon on February 3 Greenbelt was alerted to respond to the 8800 block of Hunting Lane in Laurel for a reported apartment fire. Three units from Greenbelt responded from Greenbelt. Upon arrival, units found a fire on the third floor and in the attic of a three-story apartment building. Greenbelt's engine was part of the team protecting the adjacent building from the fire. Chief 35 (Brian Rudy) was in charge of operations and Chief 35A (Jason Morgal) was the interior safety officer.

Late in the evening on February three units from Greenbelt were first on the scene of a serious accident on the Outer Loop of the Beltway just west of Kenilworth Avenue. Two people were ejected from a vehicle and a third person suffered injuries in a second car. Two helicopters were requested to transport the critical patients to area hospitals. Chief Morgal had command.

Just after 3 a.m. on February 4 units from Greenbelt were dispatched to respond to a motor vehicle accident on the northbound Baltimore-Washington Parkway south of Powder Mill Road with one person reportedly unconscious. Upon arrival, units found a single vehicle off the roadway and into a tree. The driver was extricated by the rescue squad from Berwyn Heights while Greenbelt's ambulance assisted with transport of the patient, along with county paramedics, to an area hospital.

Before returning to the station, Greenbelt's engine ran two additional motor vehicle accidents, including another requiring an extrication on Greenbelt Road in the area of Southway. One patient was transported to an area hospital from that accident.

Dentist Attends Progressive Forum

Dr. Monica Mattson, a cosmetic and restorative dentist with the McCarl Dental Group in Greenbelt, was invited to participate in the Progressive Dentist Forum on January 13-14 in Salt Lake City.

This workshop was sponsored by BECDEN Dental Laboratory, which specializes in cosmetic and full mouth smile makeovers. Mattson was chosen from more than 350 BECDEN clients around the country to be part of a group of 10 doctors to attend the forum. During the two-day workshop attendees met with their team of technicians, received instruction on the latest products and techniques available for their patients and shared educational experience and technical knowledge with other like-minded dentists.

Over the last five years, consumer demand for cosmetic dental services has increased by 31.9 percent according to an American Academy of Cosmetic Dentistry survey.

"It was a tremendous opportunity to be invited to rub shoulders with industry experts and learn new procedures and materials in cosmetic dentistry," stated Mattson.

Giant Marks Black History Month

website at www.becdendental.com.

In conjunction with Black History Month, Giant Food will celebrate African American heritage with the release of its annual "Profiles in Excellence" brochure. The brochure, which recounts African American heritage by highlighting significant accomplishments and milestones achieved by African Americans, will be available in all Giant and Super G stores throughout February. This year's edition of "Profiles in Excellence" features African Americans who have made significant contributions in the health and wellness field, from innovations such as improvements in blood storage for transfusions to performing the world's first open heart surgery. Several current Giant associates who contribute to the health and wellness field are featured as well. Giant commissioned Julia Wade, a student at Prince George's Community College to complete interpretive oil illustrations of this year's honorees profiled in the 2006 edition of Profiles in Excellence. David Ibata, currently a sophomore at the Corcoran College of Art and Design in Washington, D.C., completed pencil illustrations featured in the brochure.

Giant has also planned several other activities in recognition of Black History Month. Giant associates will have the opportunity to participate in a "Salute to Heritage" recipe contest where they can win prizes by submitting unique recipes with roots to African American culture. The company has also invited speakers to their corporate offices to discuss topics specific to black history and share African American culture.

Giant's corporate diversity staff is available to speak at community organizations celebrating Black History Month. For more information on the Giant Food Speakers Bureau, call 301-341-4710.

LOVE NOTES

Cookie Face –
Today while the blossoms
still cling to the vine,
I'll taste your strawberries,
I'll drink your sweet wine;
A million tomorrows shall all pass away
Ere I forget all the joy that is mine today.
WebMan – 15 years and counting . . .

My darling Sarah,
what we have has surpassed my wildest dreams of love.
This summer,
I can't wait to say 'I Do.'
Always yours, Lori

I can hear your heart beat for a thousand miles
And the heavens open
every time you smile
And when I come to you
that's where I belong
Yet I'm running to you
like a river's song
Happy V Day Beeb

My Love
I'd climb the highest mountain,
Sail the deepest ocean,
Cross the widest desert,
Even raft the Grand Canyon
Just to be with you
Your Lover

To My Valentine –
How do I love thee
Let me count the ways.
Alas, I can't do it
There's not enough days!
Your Swiss Miss

To Sylvia Lewis:
You are the light of my life!
Love and Respect,
Robert

Roses are red; violets are blue.
Kristen and Allen, I love you.
Grandma

Feets,
Nearly 25, dearly another 25.
Love,
Sweet Babou

The changes I have made since I met ya – Avis my Love
Have brought me happiness and faith in God above.
Every moment I love you, Yes I truly
care!
Every day is a blessing for us to share.
You are the woman I did seek and I love to be with you every day of the week!
I know that I want us to go through life and through eternity as man and wife!
I love you with all my heart,
Tommy

Kristel and Billy – you are so great
I'm glad being your Dad was my fate
We've been through troubled times, that's for sure
But our love for each other has been the cure!
Know how proud I am of you
The love in my heart for you is true!
Love, Dad

Hold you, squeeze you,
Kiss you, tease you,
Charm you, laugh you
Pamper you, please you,
Need you, want you,
Just you.
Happy Valentine's Day
Honey Bunny
I love just you
HoneyBear

Our love endures through all things,
Even when we know not what the future brings
We struggle here and struggle there,
But always end up in God's precious
care.
God's Holy Word we try to employ,
As we raise our three bundles of joy.
I thank the Lord each day,
That he brought me you . . .
and that you stay.
I pray for 50 plus years, indeed!
And that life support won't be a need.
Seventeen years is not enough,
Together we can handle all the rotten stuff.

Love and laughter fill our years,
And that's what fights off any tears.
My life wouldn't be complete,
Without the man that swept me off my feet!!

Dear Janet,
Happy Valentine's Day
and
Happy Birthday!
We love you, Pookie!
Liser, Romer and Jeff

To Gerald J.:
You are the one I hold dear
to my heart.
You are the one I hold true.
I am the one that melts in your arms
when I look in your eyes of sky blue.
You are the one who makes coffee at night,
and takes out the trash in the morn,
I am the one who would be lost
without you,
and have known this
since the day I was born.
Love, hugs & all that stuff!
Caryn Mae

A gentle breeze brought me to you;
I cling to you as the wind calms.
I find shelter within your dark red petals,
Drinking your sweet nectar wine.
We are here together
As nature has made us,
I'm your Yin you are my Yang
Said the Butterfly to the Rose!
With all my love,
Boo

Dear M n E
You are a special "two"
I owe much thanks to you
For all your care
And the time we share.
Without this, what would I do?
Love you,
The frequent diner

Robbie, Chester & Petie,
My three little cuties,
I love your little snooties!
Silly little guys,
They make me laugh,
When sick, I cry.
Once homeless little boys
Now they're safe, now they're mine,
As you've guessed,
They are, my favorite little Valentines.
